SHOULD USE

RECORDING TAPE:

It's the best-engineered tape in the world . . . gives you better highs . . . better lows . . . better sound all around! Saves your tape recorder, too — because the irish FERRO-SHEEN process results in smoother tape . . . tape that can't sand down your magnetic heads or shed oxide powder into your machine. Price? Same as ordinary tape!

Foreword

As MUSICAL COURIER enters its 79th year of uninterrupted publication, as a guide and a record of events in the entire musical world, this Directory Issue marks its third successful year of issuance. It is designed to be one of a procession of such guidebooks stretching ahead through the years.

We have striven to make each edition more complete, more useful, and more attractive to the eye, and the coverage has been steadily extended. The 1959 issue, for example, includes listings of Music Festivals Abroad and in the United States, an added feature that will be of value to artists and audiences. Managers will find the various sections of this book invaluable as well. The revision of each of the sections—insofar as material has been received from the various sources queried—has been made with care for detail.

While certain of the features of MUSICAL COURIER'S Annual Directory Issue are more or less stable, many changes have taken place in management, directorship and sponsorship of new and older organizations, since the 1958 edition was issued. New prizes and awards have been founded, and the festival, orchestra and opera fields reflect, from year to year, the extension of our national territories and cultural interests.

Particular thanks are owing to MUSICAL COURIER'S representatives in many parts of the world, to the cultural officers of the U. S. Information Service and to many other informants, for the very detailed information provided on the musical groups in various countries—some of which data appears, so far as we know, as yet in no other reference book.

The MUSICAL COURIER takes particular pleasure in presenting to the public this written record of the growing scope of the tonal art throughout the world—a record which continues to burgeon and grow ever more impressive. The Living Voice of Music speaks from these pages, in which are inscribed a "Who's Who" of the most influential figures in the musical arts today.

HELEN KETTNER PIANIST

"PIANIST SPANS THREE CENTURIES IN RECITAL AT TOWN HALL" . . . "pleasantly unhackneyed program . . . A simple romantic lyricism was the strong point of Helen Kettner . . . a serious artist."
Downes, NEW YORK TIMES

". . . The length of leaps from style to style . . . couldn't help but be impressive. Approached her chosen composers with unmatchable aplomb . . . Elegiac quality in Miss Kettner's renderings . . ."
NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

"Playing alive and decisive . . . handled coloristic passages fluently . . . keyboard facility excellent . . . recital marked by mannish strength."

The Gentle Atmosphere

VAN CLIBURN

Mrs. H. L. Cliburn is listed now as a Guild Faculty Member in Kilgore, Texas. She was also a member fifteen years ago when she entered her son in Guild Auditions. It happened that Irl Allison (Founder of the Guild) himself was the judge that year. He wrote: "Your piano playing proclivities will carry you far."!! At the age of twelve Van won his first contest, playing the Tchaikowsky Concerto.

His next teacher is also a Guild Member, none other than the famous Rosina Lhevinne. She enters many brilliant pupils in the Guild every year.

All young pianists would do well to get their first experience in facing critical judgment through the* gentle atmosphere *of the Guild. The Guild has goals for all, from beginners to artists. It also has a Composition Test for the creative pupil.

EXPERIMENTAL OPERA THEATRE OF AMERICA

RENATO CELLINI, Founder and General Director

Affiliated with the New Orleans Opera House Association

The Experimental Opera Theatre of America is dedicated to the discovery, professional training and public presentation of talented young professional singers.

"The success of the first two seasons of the Experimental Opera Theatre of America has been most gratifying. Our winners proved themselves outstanding artists to New Orleans audiences by the high quality of their performances, and with their first major role a success, several of them have gone on to leading roles with other opera companies. We have already presented some of them with the New Orleans Opera House Association, and in the coming season we are planning to feature other EOTA talent opposite established operatic stars."

The new Metropolitan Opera House to be built at Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in Manhattan, as seen on a preliminary scale model. Designed by HARRISON AND ABRAMOVITZ, the opera house is expected to set an architectural pattern for the other major buildings to be constructed in the $75,000,000 center. This view from the south shows the fourteen-story opera house, which will be one of the largest in the world, as it will be seen across West 62nd Street and a city park to be built at the southwest corner of the Center's three-block site.

"... one of the great voices of our time"

Betty ALLEN

New York World-Telegram and Sun

January 6, 1958

Hers is a strong and earthy voice, deep, rich and vibrant; when Miss Allen let go the upper tones were staggering in their impact. Yet she could phrase gently and whisper pianissimi in a fragile hush.
Louis Biancolli

The Montreal Star

December 5, 1958

Within the space of about an hour she convinced most people in the hall that they had been listening to one of the great voices of our time. Betty Allen's gifts are prodigious. Her voice is warm and rich, with a particularly beautiful top octave.
Eric McLean

London Daily Telegraph

December 1, 1958

Miss Allen has a magnificent voice, warm and splendid in dramatic moments, and with a steady compelling line. I admired her musicianship in her wide-ranging programme and her gift for languages

Algemeen Handelsblad (Amsterdam)

November 11, 1958

Remarkable Recital by Betty Allen

The performance in The Hague of mezzo-soprano Betty Allen has left a remarkable impression. In the first place, there was the voice purely as a tone phenomenon. We dare say that this was the most beautiful voice we ever heard. Betty Allen has been endowed by nature with a vocal expression that, in all registers, is of the purest gold and exceptional volume.

When listening to the ease with which the artist attains the most powerful dynamic shades one can imagine, it seems that the amplifying potential of this tone is limitless.

Berlin (in Verdi Requiem with Berlin Philharmonic and St. Hedwig's Choir)

November 20, 1958—Der Tagesspiegel

It is important to hail the arrival of a new voice, the powerful, dark-purple glowing mezzo-soprano of the Negro American, Betty Allen, whose interpretation was close to the heart of this music, to its ardor and entreaty, its grace and its stern prophecy, as if it were a part of her being.

Oslo

November 7, 1958 (Aftenbladt)

There is seldom a song concert here at home that would last for nearly two hours, and still more seldom that one would unhesitatingly wish it to continue for two more. But that happened yesterday—for the concert given by the American singer Betty Allen was such a beautiful and enriching experience. Betty Allen has a powerful voice, a mezzo-soprano, unusually even, and intense in sound, with a carrying capacity undiminished even in the most velvety soft pianissimo. Her voice ranges over incredibly rich colors, from dramatic appeal in fiery abandonment to the most submissive and most seraphic flute-like tones.

The National Association of Concert Managers Presents a Code of Ethics for the Professional Concert Field

I. Preamble.

The local manager looks upon his work as a professional service. He is an arbiter of good taste in his community and is subject to all the ethical standards—both of approval and of censure—that should apply to a profession which enjoys the public trust. In the first instance, he faces this responsibility on his own and thus should be his own severest critic. Yet, since he is dependent on other elements in the concert field to bring good music, dance and related attractions to his locality, there are occasions when his responsibility is shared by others, principally by the artist or attraction and by the agency which negotiates the booking agreement for the local appearance of the artist or attraction. Any effective embodiment of ethical standards must, perforce, give due recognition to the common problems of the foregoing.

To achieve the proper dignity and strength of purpose in setting up this Code of Ethics, the local manager joins wtih others of his profession throughout the United States and Canada by means of their duly established organization, The National Association of Concert Managers, Inc. As a member, he agrees to abide by this Code of Ethics which has been adopted by this Association. He does so not simply for his own good, but for the good of the concert field as a whole. His hope is that artist and booking manager alike will look upon the Code of Ethics which follows in the same public-serving spirit in which it was written and adopted.

II. Relations Between Local Managers.

A local manager welcomes his association with other ethical local managers of his community and with ethical local managers of other communities. He derives a practical benefit through the exchange of information and the comparison of operating methods. He also achieves that deeper benefit, true of every profession worthy of the name: the furthering of the best interests of his nation, in his case through constructive cultural activity.

III. The Local Manager and the Artist.

One of the most gratifying features of the concert field is the mutual regard, esteem and affection established between local managers and artists over the years of their association. In essence, the local manager brings an artist to his community because of his faith in what the latter can offer the public. It is to his interest that the artist's comfort and well-being are both respected and fostered. In turn, the artist appears as a guest of the community and respects its traditions and hospitality.

IV. The Local Manager and the Booking Manager.

The success of the concert field resides ultimately in the confidence and proper business understanding between the local manager and the booking manager. Though the booking manager usually acts as agent for the artist or attraction, he is properly expected to assume the initiative and responsibility for all business aspects of the engagement including the principle of refusal and season exclusivity.

V. The Booking Contract.

It is through the contract engaging an artist or attraction that the relations between booking manager and local manager are properly defined. The following conditions are considered inherent in any contractual obligation.

A. The booking manager possesses the legal right to book a given artist or attraction before submitting a contract to the local manager.

B. The principle of reciprocity must obtain in all cases where the attraction and/or its management asks for special protection. For example: the so-called Acts of God clause should absolve not only the attraction but the local manager as well.

C. It is a matter of proper business ethics that negotiated initial fee quotations be respected.

D. In regard to labor charges, the basic rule is considered to be: that costs inherent in the attraction are paid by the attraction, and those inherent in the particular local presentation are paid by the local manager. The operation of this principle as applied to specific cases is outlined in Exhibit I.

E. The cost of equipment is defrayed under the same principle that applies for labor charges as outlined in Exhibit II.

F. The local time of arrival, mode of transportation, and date and place of the immediately previous engagement of an artist or attraction should be made known in writing to a local manager as far in advance as possible, to enable him to adopt proper measures in the event of adverse weather or other conditions that might delay the arrival of the artist or attraction.

Conclusion.

This Code of Ethics is offered as an expression of The National Association of Concert Managers, Inc. It is earnestly hoped that all elements of the professional concert field will view this expression in the same spirit of public service in which it has been formulated.

Exhibit I.—Application of the Rule for Labor Charges.

A. Teamster and loader charges are borne by the attraction.

B. A traveling stage crew (even when assigned by a local union) is paid by the attraction.

C. All other stage labor is paid by the local manager, unless excess costs are negotiated in advance. The booking manager should make known the yellow card requirements before closing the contract or, if that is impossible, as far in advance of the date of performance as possible.

D. If overtime for stage labor is incurred prior to the normal arrival call of the house crew, the overtime cost is paid by the attraction. If overtime is incurred after the crew's normal closing time, it is paid by the local manager.

E. Box office service and personnel, ushers, doormen and other house attaches are paid by the local manager.

F. Where union musicians are involved, an attraction has the right to limit its traveling orchestra in number, and this limit should be stipulated in the booking contract. If the local union requires a larger complement, the local manager should make this requirement known before signing the contract, and the added cost should be negotiated on an equitable basis.

G. Union or other labor obligations towards chorus members, dancers, seamstresses, pressers, road managers and press agents are assumed by the attraction, and the local manager must be held harmless against any strikes or claims for payment by unions who have jurisdiction over these members of the company.

Exhibit II. — Application of the Rule for Equipment Costs.

A. The local manager provides (and pays for, if necessary) the so-called "normal" stage equipment, e.g.: front curtain (if one exists), a concert set, overhead light, chairs and other common properties if the latter are available in the auditorium.

B. Additional stage equipment, including sets, drops, lights and properties, are provided by the attraction at its cost, unless the local manager has them on hand and can make them available.

C. The piano for the concert performance is inherently an expense of the artist or attraction. Many artists have arrangements with piano companies which service their concerts. The local manager respects the piano commitments of the artist in using the instrument of his choice, provided the local manager does not have to defray the cost of cartage, rental and tuning.

D. A printed house program is the obligation of the local manager, but he reserves the right to keep the length of the copy within his usual format, if in doing so the audience can still follow the performance intelligibly. The attraction, in its turn, should provide program copy in time to meet printing schedules, a period of two weeks prior to the date of performance being considered absolute minimum.

"Captivating!"

Vera Franceschi

"America's Ambassadress of Music" has won acclaim in all the important music centers and with the world's great orchestras. Typical of the raves accorded her on her most recently completed NORTH AMERICAN tour is this appraisal of a performance with the Cincinnati Symphony:

> "Captivating. She stole through the Mozart concerto with a gorgeous piano sound, a perfectly honed technique, and she turned every phrase in a way that would make you melt were you not of flesh and bone. This is, after all, the best of music. It exacts the ultimate of discipline and poetry . . . Our young lady (a pretty one, too) tossed it off, beautifully, superbly in style, with articulation, with authority and projection. Where has SHE been?"

ERIC FRIEDMAN

The 19-year-old violinist Eric Friedman, who made such a sensational recital debut in Carnegie Hall three seasons ago, has continued to win glowing praise in city after city across the continent:

SAMPLE PRESS

WITH ORCHESTRA

Mendelssohn Concerto, Chautauqua Symphony, Walter Hendl conducting

"Impassioned eloquence such as one seldom hears... approached a Heifetz-like dimension—so painfully sweet that it brought a lump to the throat. Expressive in ways not previously experienced... This was a performance to remember."

Chautauqua Daily, July 31, 1958

IN RECITAL

Peabody Conservatory, Baltimore

"A recital memorable for its superb playing and musical insight... unassuming dignity and mature judgment... Technique Mr. Friedman has, and to spare, yet one was aware that at all times it was entirely subordinated to his musical will."

"Ewan Harbrecht provided the most artistic and musically thrilling recital that has been heard here for many seasons."

The Vancouver Sun

"A singer of consummate tact and deep artistic understanding, not to mention a voice and technique able to negotiate the difficult and taxing ornamented vocal line . . . allied lyricism to her flexible coloratura and brought expressiveness and meaning to a part which can easily degenerate into mere empty vocal display."

"Theodore Lettvin last gave a piano recital here in 1956. In the two years since then, he has made giant strides. His Town Hall recital last night was the product of a brilliant young instrumentalist and a sincere musician. It was an evening of sheer accomplishment rather than promise, and it served to put Mr. Lettvin among the front rank of American pianists."

Harold C. Schonberg
New York Times, Nov. 27, 1958

theodore LETTVIN

pianist

"There are very few men alive who can make music at the piano the way Mr. Lettvin did last night at the Phillips Gallery. He is a virtuoso of such superlative attainments that the listener is never conscious of the difficulties, and a musical re-creator of curious turn of mind who seems able to find out the secret of every phrase."

Day Thorpe
The Evening Star (Washington, D.C.)
Dec. 30, 1958

"In a time when we look ahead a decade or two and wonder who the great pianists on our stages will be and if they will be able to play for us the monumental music for piano with what we now think of as the grand manner, it is good to hear Lettvin.

"For he is assuredly one of those whose standards, already fixed, are profound both in present realization and future promise, and whose performance is presently immensely satisfying, and likely to become increasingly rewarding."

MAC MORGAN baritone

"MAC MORGAN, whose reputation as a singer of oratorio and opera is both widespread and distinguished, made his recital debut yesterday afternoon in Town Hall . . . his appearance was in every way a notable event . . . you will look long for a young singer whose technique is more ideally suited to the person who owns it; and you will look longer still for a new recitalist with greater assurance on stage . . . not a note emerges which is not thought out, controlled, deliberately evoked—and his texts, too, he understands to the last comma. Mr. Morgan is not a performer who functions with the ever-present suggestion that vocal mishaps are part of the singing game; in his make-up and workmanship there is no margin for error. Further, his baritone, especially in its middle register, is an instrument of rare beauty."

Rudié's Sinfonietta and Soloists

A concert is a musical occasion on which more than two artists perform. When a group of instrumentalists and singers combine to render a concert program, that is in the best tradition of the past, for singers like Jenny Lind, Caruso and Chaliapin always appeared with assisting artists. Variety is the spice and interest of a concert, and the first ensemble directed by Mr. Rudié, with his interesting soloists, guarantee a notable entertainment in the concert hall.

Madame Butterfly—"Her realization of the part . . . is now among the City Center's authentic treasures." Perkins, HERALD TRIBUNE, N. Y.

"Petite Miss Carron is well suited to the role in vocal gifts and appearance . . . a lyric voice of sweet quality . . . sang and acted with conviction."
Harriet Johnson, NEW YORK POST

"a superb Cio Cio San . . . the best Butterfly Detroit has heard in many a day."
Finlayson, DETROIT NEWS

"a voice of exquisite flexibility and beauty . . . her portrayal of the role is a poignant and utterly believable creation." Callaghan, DETROIT FREE PRESS

Turandot—"Elisabeth Carron, making her new Orleans debut as Liu, the slave girl, captivated the audience with the beauty of her lyric soprano voice and her petite grace. In her two arias . . . Miss Carron sang with finesse and effectiveness, bringing a sensitive appreciation to the role as well as a lovely voice."
Dufour, NEW ORLEANS STATES AND ITEM

"a sure and exquisitely framed voice for Liu."
Myers, TIMES-PICAYUNE, NEW ORLEANS

Regina—"Superb rendition of an aria which avoids self-pity and achieves heartbreak . . . superb stagewomanship." VARIETY

"all but stole the show." OPERA NEWS

Bohème—"Physically ideal for the role of the fragile seamstress, Miss Carron's delicate voice was used with real artistry as her upper notes rang out clear and vigrant."

Bette Dubro

mezzo-soprano

CARMEN:

"Dubro's Luscious Voice Heard in 'Carmen'."

"The opera pivots around the title role assumed by Bette Dubro. Her voice is luscious, used with ease and color. Her soft work is smooth and clear, and her range readily covers the wide dimensions set forth by the composer."

The Washington (D. C.) POST

IL TROVATORE:

"Bette Dubro, a grand revelation"

"Bette Dubro (Azucena) gave us last evening a sensational surprise although previously we had been frankly impressed by the lovely voice of this fascinating artist. We had seen in Aida and Rigoletto her realization and personal beauty; however in the role of Azucena she is a grand revelation. Her deep voice, rich and warmly expressive at every moment, dominated the ensemble. Bette Dubro drew a spontaneous, merited ovation for her magnificent performance."

La Espera, Caracas

AIDA:

"Bette Dubro, however regally she bore herself, showed a voice, gentle and gracious, especially warm in the middle range; her beautiful presentation caused a sensation." La Espera, Caracas

LA FAVORITA:

"The mezzo-soprano, Bette Dubro, achieved a triumph! Among today's American singers she displays superlative talent and carries through her part, actually, to perfection . . . (she) continued her domination of the stage with true, accurate understanding of vital details, giving to the Leonora of La Favorita warm, notable verity. . . . The great romanza of the Third Act, 'O mio Fernando,' was sung with intense feeling; the exquisite aria permitting the singer scope in expressing, at one time, delirious joy and desperation. . . . She showed herself to be a magnificent actress." El Porvenir, Monterrey, N. L. Domingo

soprano

". . . a gifted recitalist . . ."

". . . a superb musician . . ."

". . . a beautiful voice . . ."

". . . a dramatic stage personality . . ."

NEW YORK CITY:

". . . disclosed a voice of good quality. Miss Hunter's tone is agreeable . . . The soprano did some of her best singing in works of Schubert, Strauss and Hugo Wolf, which displayed the natural beauty of her voice to advantage."

N. Y. TIMES

"She met the diversified musical and interpretative demands with intelligence and considerable discernment. Her voice gave an impression of promising volume and prevalently appealing quality with a bright hue in outspoken high notes as a prominent feature . . . the singer showed a commendable range of color . . . she was emotionally persuasive both in certain items of a sustained, intimate character, sung with due subtlety of dynamic shading, and in some more impassioned ones."

N. Y. HERALD TRIBUNE

"a voice of pristine clarity, wide-ranged and soaring . . . a beautiful instrument used with understanding . . . the singer disclosed the full beauty and color of her voice, subtly spinning the phrases and soaring to golden heights of lustrous timbre . . . English group was marked by superlative enunciation . . ."

MUSICAL COURIER

BOSTON:

"Miss Hunter is the kind of artist who deserves a wider audience. She can do what few young artists can do. She has poise, charm and an outgoing personality . . . displays an accurate handling of fioritura passages . . . four Debussy items were engagingly set forth in Miss Hunter's best style and there was fire aplenty in the darkly impassioned sections of Turina's 'Poema en forma de canciones.'"

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

CHICAGO:

"Her program was out of the best art song category and her singing was clearly indicative of study well below the surface. Schubert, Wolf and Strauss lieder had character both as music and language with the singing meeting such test pieces with an artist's knowing touch."

the critics who listened

in London

"It seems that John Lewis, with his additions and modifications to the language of modern jazz, has, for the small group at least, succeeded in utilizing more elaborate forms while preserving the soloist's freedom. The innovations have been proved valid and form and content, improvisation and composition, have in his hands entered into a closer, more complex relationship than ever before in modern jazz . . . the Modern Jazz Quartet presented more improvisation per concert than any other group that has visited England."

—Max Harrison, Jazz Monthly

in New York

"the Quartet challenged traditional groups in both acoustical and technical matters. Composers of modern chamber music should take note."

—Miles Kastendieck, New York Journal-American

"the ensemble offered an audience in New York's Town Hall one of the most refined evenings of music the season has provided."

—Irving Kolodin, The Saturday Review

"The Modern Jazz Quartet is quite a wondrous group, though not having heard it before, I was totally unprepared for its vast originality in details of sonority and the member's genuine grace of execution . . . to these ears it was svelt, the artists together producing sounds not only fascinating but genuinely musical."

Jay S. Harrison, New York Herald Tribune

"the Quartet has developed a subtle, tightly knit, loosely flowing yet complex form of jazz that is excellently suited to the concert hall."

—John S. Wilson, New York Times

in Stuttgart and in Monterey

JOHN MODENOS

Baritone

Winner of the 9th American Theater Wing Concert Award

THE NEW YORK TIMES
OCTOBER 20, 1958.

MODENOS HEARD IN SONG RECITAL

John Modenos,, Cyprus-born baritone, was heard Sunday in a recital at Town Hall. He reaffirmed the good impression he had made at his debut recital in February, 1957, as the ninth winner of the American Theatre Wing Concert Award.

Mr. Modenos has style. His platform bearing shows the poise and assurance that come with much experience in public performance. His singing communicates to his hearers. Musically his performance shows the refinement and polish that come about from intelligent, conscientious study.

The broad program demonstrated Mr. Modenos' versatility. Especially distinguished was his singing of the Schubert group. The varied demands of these songs were met with ease. Mr. Modenas proved himself equally capable of the dramatic intensity required by "Dem Unendlichen," the lightness and agility needed for "Fischerweise" and the long, sustained phrases of "Im Abendrot" and "Der Wegweiser."

While the Schubert songs were a highlight of the recital, they were by no means its only admirable feature. It was a pleasure to hear Mr. Modenos again, and one looks forward to future performances by this promising young baritone.

Otto Herz was the accompanist.

John Modenos At Town Hall

Mr. Modenos has an exceedingly handsome and virile voice which he controls admirably. His tone is ever lusty and bright, and what he sings rings. Mr. Modenos has a brave voice and a big one. J. S. H.

John Modenos In Song Recital

A baritone of exceptional merit was officially added to the professional roster last night when John Modenos made his recital debut in Town Hall as winner of the ninth American Theater Wing Concert Award. this season, Mr. Modenos did not exactly rate as an unknown before this solo presentation, but the full range of his gifts was by no means a matter of common knowledge.

A resident of the United States since 1948, the young artist was born in Cyprus, and it is due, perhaps, to his European background that he is blessed with an uncommon linguistic facility. In any event, this asset rests at the base of his accomplishments. His voice, while pleasing, flexible and expressive with it is, at this stage of his career, quite remarkable.

Particularly gratifying was Mr. Modenos' interpretation of lieder by Schubert and Brahms. Here, he sensed and projected an impressive measure of the wistful sentiment found in songs like "Die Stadt" and "Feldeinsamkeit," for example.

But his way with Faure's "Clair de Lune," which is something entirely different, was equally admirable and the still different, folklike Greek songs, with which the program ended, seemed made to order for him.

Lyric-Coloratura Soprano

WORLD PREMIERE, CENTRAL CITY, COLORADO

"Leyna Gabriele's Baby Doe was clearly sung and performed. Every word in her songs came over with clarity, and the spontaneity and ease of her light playing was engaging. The voice has fine coloratura agility and its bright, flute-like tones were put to notable use in The Silver Song and The Willow Song."

—Allen Young, Denver Post

"A young coloratura of exceptional gifts was presented last night by the Charleston Sym-Symphony Orchestra and it was no time at all before she had completely won over the audience . . . a lovely voice of remarkable range and one that is of persuasive texture in all her registers. She employs it with real artistry."

—The Charleston Gazette, Charleston, West Virginia.

"From the first moments, Rhea Jackson commanded respect by her well-timbered voice, full and warm, by her impeccable technique and her absolute control of the emission and scope of the voice, flexible in the 'fiorituras' and intense in the 'tenutos' and 'legatos'. Innately gifted with vocal skill and musical intelligence with authentic comprehension of the style and musical content and expression of each composer." Destino

NEW YORK

"Miss Jackson exhibited a distinctly pleasing voice. Its high notes, marked by clarity and freshness, had an unusually delectable purity of note and their prevailing standard of quality was high. Lower notes were also appealing and produced without a sense of effort. Herald-Tribune

"... She communicated with her audience along that gleaming emotional thread that so often eludes singers. Her voice was agile and honey-sweet. When she sang softly, with a floating head tone, every word, whether English, Italian, German, was clearly pronounced . . . The soprano skittered through long coloratura phrases with clarity and precision. Two groups of songs by Strauss and Fauré were done with delicacy and taste." New York Times

"Mueller brilliant as soloist in Ravel Piano Concerto."
Alfred Frankenstein, San Francisco Chronicle

"A bright, joyous Harlequin Overture by Stanford's Leonard Ratner and a ravishing performance of Ravel's Piano Concerto were the hits of last night's Opera House concert by the San Francisco Symphony . . .

Pianist Robert Mueller made the most of the whimsy and the languorous melody of the Ravel, and judging by his rapt, intense facial expression, he was totally wrapped up in the music—as a performer should be."
Arthur Bloomfield, San Francisco Ca'l-Bulletin

"Robert Mueller's first appearance on the major San Francisco Symphony series as soloist in Ravel's Piano Concerto in G major make the first half of this week's symphony program under Enrique Jorda's baton particularly newsworthy . . .

The Ravel was delightful. Mr. Mueller has been fulfilling the promise of his debut performances here, and played with poise, good tone, technical clarity and real musical feeling."
Margery M. Fisher, San Francisco News

"For all its excursions into Gershwin-like jazz and its touches of Chopinesque romanticism, the Ravel concerto is a baroque piece; it is also a very subtle display of acrobatics for all concerned . . .

Robert Mueller played the solo part with precisely the right combination of brilliance and transparency, the right degree of serenity in the low movement, and the right note of flying energy elsewhere . . .

Seldom, if ever, has the total concept of this concerto been so convincingly expressed on the stage of the War Memorial."
Alfred Frankenstein, San Francisco Chronicle

The Mauney Twins

Ernest and Miles

Duo-pianists

"The similarity of these talented identical-twin musicians in appearance was matched by the similarity of their style of performance and their notable technical ability and musicianship. . . ."

New York Herald Tribune, Oct. 14, 1958

"Sounding alike seems to come as natural as looking alike to Ernest and Miles Mauney who gave a brilliant two-piano concert in Town Hall last night. . . . They pack plenty of feeling in their identical hearts . . . solid technique combined with clean, incisive tone."

ALLEN CHILD and the Aristocrats of song...

is comprised of twenty-four handsome young men and women each highly trained in ensemble choral work. They have a repertoire of music staging and lighting effects that make their performances unusually outstanding enjoyable entertainment. For those who prefer the Classics—Choral Works of The Masters. For Audiences who enjoy the Pops Type of Concert, the light and moving melodious numbers of the Popular and Current Musicals. Audiences remember a concert by THE ARISTOCRATS OF SONG with a feeling of enjoyment and appreciation.

Director Child is a proponent of the Fred Waring type of concert. His varied range of Choral Work has placed him among the top.

PRESS

CHICAGO—The Aristocrats Of Song have everything—attractive young vocalists, beautiful voices, nostalgic blend—a highly competent and imaginative director—and beautiful blending of lighting effects.

NEW YORK—The Aristocrats Of Song are one of the most outstanding groups heard here. These handsome vocalists under the excellent direction of Allen V. Child, well known Chicago director, have attained a perfection most unusual in choral works.

"Olefsky's cello playing is synonymous with genius. We have heard most of the cello greats—none to compare with Olefsky. His brilliance savors of Casals and Piatigorsky at their best."

John Gardiner, Windsor Daily Star

"Performed with the highest artistry."

Harriet Johnson, New York Post

"A cellist whose playing has the unmistakable flavor of a real musical personality."

Irving Sablosky, Chicago Daily News

"He stands with the greatest cellists playing today, or to be recalled out of past decades."

Paul Hume, Washington Post

"He played it (Haydn Concerto) as anyone must have expected him to play it, beautifully."

Claudia Cassidy, Chicago Tribune

"There has been no more technically spectacular and musically sensitive recital in Washington this season than that of Paul Olefsky."

Day Thorpe, Evening Star, Washington, D. C.

"A master of his instrument."

Philadelphia Inquirer

"Olefsky added to his laurels as a musical scholar and one of the foremost masters of the cello."

Josef Mossman, Detroit News

CAREER NOTES

Paul Olefsky, cellist, has appeared with the Detroit, Philadelphia, Chautauqua, Bell Telephone Hour, Grant Park, Chicago Symphony orchestras, and others. He has won the Naumburg (1948) and Michaels Memorial Music Award (1953). Olefsky has been heard nationally over the N.B.C. and C.B.S. networks. Much acclaimed appearances in New York City's Town Hall were followed by the premiering of Virgil Thomson's "Cello Concerto" in Carnegie Hall with Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra, which was broadcast internationally over the Voice of America. Mr. Olefsky is currently engaged in a series of recordings for Recital Records. He is the musical director of the Bertram Shapleigh Foundation, the Grosse Pointe Music Festival, the Detroit Friends of Music, and the Cranbrook Gardens Summer Music Festival.

30th Year of the Guild

The National Guild of Piano Teachers sends the MUSICAL COURIER to many thousand piano teachers in the U. S. There are 600 centers where auditions are held. From present indications the enrollment this year will reach 53,000. Every spring the Guild engages over 200 adjudicators who travel outside their own territory to judge the pupils.

The Guild, now in its thirtieth year, was organized by Irl Allison in Texas, and after some time in residence in New York he returned to his favorite State, where he maintains his home, and handles the administrative work for the whole country from Austin with the able assistance of his son, Irl Allison, Jr. They issue a twenty-page newspaper from time to time called "Guild Notes" that has space for details of Guild members' myriad activities.

The heart of the Guild is the Syllabus which outlines audition programs according to style, not limiting the teacher to a prescribed list. The Composition Test is outlined and this year teachers from twenty States entered pupils in creative work. All participants receive certificates and very attractive pins and those who complete the work required for college entrance may have a High School Diploma. Collegiate and artist classifications are available to those with the ability and ambition. A large Yearbook comes out every year with names and addresses of members. Biennially the International Piano Recording Festival is held in the fall with prizes totaling $20,000. Thoroughly American, the Guild has lifted teaching standards in all sections of the United States.

"Study in Concentration"

This photograph, which might be called "A Study in Concentration," is typical of Guild Teacher activity, a behind-the-scenes picture. It shows Henry Levine demonstrating to a class of teachers and artists (only a few are shown in the photograph) the action of the Steinway Piano in relation to the hand. All over the country classes of many kinds are given winter and summer and the majority of teachers attending are members of the National Guild of Piano Teachers.

The type of teacher who belongs to the Guild is open-minded, progressive, alert, and willing to have pupils judged by others. As Mr. Levine himself expressed it: "When I was first asked to judge for the Guild I was a little dubious, but when I finally did, I was amazed at the fine quality of the work, the seriousness of the pupils and their musicality. Dr. Allison has done a great thing in organizing the Guild."

ALFREDO MARTINO

Teacher of the art of beautiful singing, which involves no mystery, but rather is individualized instruction in the building of natural, effortless technique in all parts of the vocal range, in which breath control and interpretive vocal analysis of operatic interpretations are included.

Bad singing is not always the result of incorrect tone production. One of the greatest contributing factors is incorrect breathing technique. The act of inspiration and expiration must be accomplished without wasted energy, and it is impossible to sing correctly unless one understands how to utilize the breath economically.

False and exaggerated expressions of interpretation are very detrimental to vocal and physical health. It can be understood that in subjecting oneself every day to the strong emotion inherent in the parts one must act, one meets with many complications. For example, the nervous system can be seriously agitated, and at the same time organic functions such as insomnia, nervous tension, restlessness, weakness, and vocal disturbance may appear during the full and vigorous respiratory acts which accompany singing. Furthermore, the slowed heartbeat resulting from intense nervous agitation can cause lapsed breathing, tightening of the throat, the choked voice, and eventually, the tremolo. When any of these conditions accompany bad use of breath or strong emotion, they can put any perfect vocal instrument into a dangerous condition.

Among the many distinguished singers who have been availing themselves of his unique teaching method, Mr. Martino at present lists Mario Sereni, renowned baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Morley Meredith, brilliant concert and operatic baritone (Mgr. N.A.C.).

Complimentary copy of Mr. Martino's book, "Today's Singing," mailed upon request.

LUTTON MUSIC PERSONNEL SERVICE

Each season we have requests from major music schools of the U.S. for currently active artist teacher-performers who wish to join their staffs. While the majority prefer music degree personnel . . . successful professional artists to teach Voice—Opera Workshop—Piano—Orchestral instruments (major symphony background preferred) are also in limited demand.

We invite you to write us regarding our services.

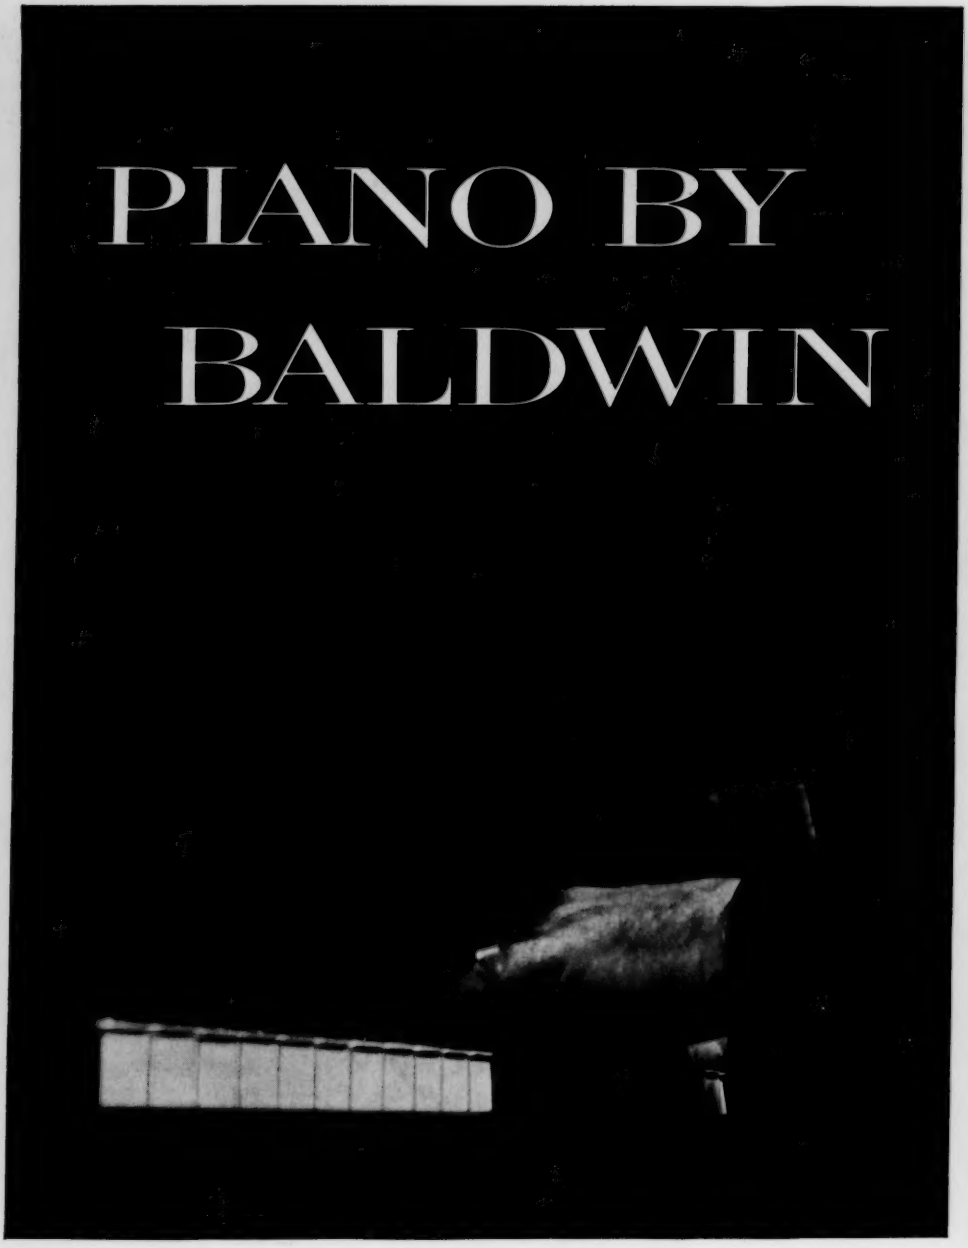
PIANO BY BALDWIN



TONE is one of the principal standards by which fine pianos are judged. Tone of Baldwin stature can be achieved only through use of the finest materials in the hands of dedicated craftsmen. For example, the patented Baldwin pinblock contains forty layers of select hardwood, so strong that the modern Baldwin Grand stays tuned as no piano ever did before. This is but one reason why Baldwin is the choice of those whose standards require the finest. Truly, Baldwin is the professional's piano.
